Reporter defends story

Consultant rebuts news article at Bay hearing

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Discussion at a Bay St. Louis Small Cities Program hearing Monday night primarily dealt with a rebuttal of a newspaper report and editorial alleging administrative cost overruns.

An article and editorial in recent issues of "The Daily Herald" state a grant application for the $1.6 million program lists $107,000 in administrative costs, but a contract approved by the City Council with Ron Murray Consultants, Inc. totals $183,900.

The newspaper reports also question Ronnie Murray securing the contract for his company while employed as local federal programs coordinator by Gulf Regional Planning Commission of Gulfport.

Murray submitted his resignation from his $20,000 per year position to GRPC after receiving the three-year Bay St. Louis administrative contract.

Donn Murray, Ronnie Murray's father and member of the new corporation, earlier this week said their company and possibly the city will file suit against the Gulfport-based daily newspaper.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development grant will provide funds for gas line renovation, housing rehabilitation, property acquisition, structure demolition and recreation improvements in a large area of the city.

Ronnie Murray opened the hearing by criticizing the newspaper for its "one sentence" reporting the city had received a "small amount of money" ($1.6 million), but highly publicized his $183,000 contract.

"The articles only cover one side of the story. I've prepared the last four federal funding applications for Bay St. Louis and three of those have been funded bringing over $2 million in grants to the city," he stated.

"Information about my contract has been spread across the Gulf Coast by the newspapers and I want my time to clear this matter up," Murray noted.

"I prepared the grant for GRPC and decided I wanted to administer the project myself. I told the city council of my idea and I had to compete for the contract like everybody else," he stated.

Murray's proposal was the only bid

Council approves Murray program

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay St. Louis Council received a full application for the 1981 Small Cities Program from Ronnie Murray, administrator, Tuesday night.

The application was accepted by council members and they authorized Mayor Larry Bennett to sign the application on behalf of the City.

The full application is for the $1,666 million grant received from the Housing and Urban Development for 1981 and will be used for updating the gas system, rehabilitation of homes and recreation improvements for the city during the next three years.

Murray also reported that Bay St. Louis should be able to recover $6,000 it spent on the 1980 and 1979 Small Cities program for easements, and appraisals.

The 1979 project was for the upgrading of the water and sewer system on the 500 blocks of DeMontuzin, State, Main St., John and Easterbrook Streets.

In other business council declared the property located at the corner of Dunbar and Boardman Avenues as a

Hancock teachers receive $850 per year pay hike

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County School Board Saturday approved an $875 1981-1982 school year pay increase for all certified teachers.

Billy D. Sills, superintendent of education, said the increase is based on a suggested State Department of Education figure.

The school district pay schedule will offer $11,275 per year to teachers with no experience holding a bachelor's degree (A Certified).

Instructors with undergraduate degrees will be offered $250 for each year of instructional experience.

Included in the pay scale is an $800 district-paid supplement.

Teachers with master's degrees (AA Certified) and no experience will gross $12,175 with $275 offered for each year of experience.

A $900 local supplement is included in the master's degree pay scale.

Those instructors with 44 hours or course work in addition to their master's degree (AAA-Certified) will be offered a $13,075 beginning salary with $300 increments for each year of experience.

The AAA scale includes a $1,000 local supplement.

Woodrow Ladner, acting board president, and Louie Ladner, board member, asked Sills to formulate an 'across the board' pay increase scale for non-certified personnel rather than a percentage increase.

The officials stated that percentage increases primarily benefit higher wage earners.

Regarding a $3,791 micro-fish printer bought at state bid price from Lanier Business Products of Gulfport by Donald Hillman, Hancock North Central High School principal, on Oct. 31, the board approved the action.

Sills said the printer will reduce the amount of storage space needed for student records.

City School Board ok's 1981-82 teacher salaries

By BRENT MACEY

After more than three hours of discussion in an executive session barring the public and press from attendance, the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District voted to approve salary increases for teachers and teacher aids and also approved tabling any action on salaries for administrators and non-certified personnel.

Approval in open session of all motions after the executive session took approximately five minutes.

The board approved a motion by Virginia Gex, board member, to increase salaries of classroom teachers in accordance with the Mississippi State salary scale increases.

Increasing the teacher's supplement salary $100 above superintendent's recommendation for the teachers was also included in that motion and approved by the board.

McCullough said Tuesday he had recommended the supplement to the teacher's salary remain $300, the same amount as last year, until determining the 1981-82 school year budget.

"I was planning to recommend increasing the supplement $100 if the budget allowed it," McCullough said, "but the board wanted to approve it right now."

In terms of dollars and cents figures, a first year teacher with Single A certification (bachelor's degree) will receive $11,375 for the 1981-82 school year.

That figure includes the $900 teacher supplement.

The superintendent said that increase is an average 8.3 percent increase over last year's teacher's salaries.

McCullough said the State of Mississippi pays the base salary while the supplement is paid through local funds.

The pay scale increases in accordance with the number of years a teacher has been employed in the system and is also dependent on the degree of certification, McCullough said.

The percentage amount of raise also fluctuates according to the experience of a teacher.

PROGRAM DETAILS REVEALED—Ronnie Murray, Bay St. Louis Small Cities Program administrator, Monday night explains to Edith Back, "The Daily Herald's" Bay Bureau reporter, his fees for directing the $1.6 million Department of Housing and Urban Development project. Back recently authored an article which states Murray's administrative costs were 72 percent above budget. Murray replied he is charging the city some eight percent less than HUD's recommended budget. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Chief praises Bay officer

Professional response to an emergency situation has brought praises to a Bay St. Louis policeman from Police Chief Douglas Williams.

Patrolman Russell Watts received praise "for his alertness and sturdy action" from the chief for apprehending a man during a shooting last Friday.

Police Chief Douglas Williams said Mrs. Barbara LaFountain of Lakeshore had asked Watts to accompany her while she went to the home of Matthew Parr, 206 Ulman Ave., Apt. B, to attempt to get a stereo belonging to her daughter believed to be in Parr's possession.

Watts waited across the street near Bay Junior High School, Williams said. As Mrs. LaFountain approached the building, Parr "opened the curtain and smiled at Watts," Williams said.

The woman spoke to Parr on the porch of the home, he said.

"They began to shout at each other, then a shot rang out, penetrating the south wall of Parr's apartment, and passing over officer Watts' head and onto the wall of the school," Williams said.

After the shot, Watts called to Mrs. LaFountain to get out of the way, then called for help on his radio.

"He ran to the porch of the apartment where Parr was standing and ordered Parr to lie on the ground," Williams said. With the assistance of officer Neils Sands, Watts placed Parr under arrest, he said.

Parr is charged with assault on a police officer with a deadly weapon, disturbing the peace and discharging a firearm in the city limits.

Hancock Jail escapee captured

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Four prisoners attempted a jail escape Monday morning with two being apprehended during attempt and a third arrested on Tuesday by Gulfport Police.

Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson said, "Hancock Jailor R.D. Ladner opened a cell to remove some trash and was grabbed by the arm by Jimmy Jordan, who was sentenced to 20 years of rape and awaiting pickup by the state penitentiary at Parchman."

"Ladner was thrown to the floor and Joran, Elijah Bellino, who received a life sentence for armed robbery; Jerry Wayne Bridges, serving life for armed robbery; and Charles E. Tague, who was being held on a burglary charge for the Waveland Police Department and awaiting a preliminary hearing before Waveland Judge Lucian Gex tried to flee," Peterson added.

The four as they fled, pushed Mrs. R.D. Ladner, cook, into a chair and three went out a window in the new addition of the jail, according to the sheriff.

"Bellino was nabbed by Charles John, dispatcher, on the courthouse parking lot. John was coming in to cover the board of supervisors meeting scheduled that morning. Jordan, as he came down the stairwell was captured by Dispatcher Mary Bieh," Peterson stated.

Bridges and Tague fled the scene and

Supervisors turn down school board millage

By BRENT MACEY

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors rejected authorizing a two mill tax for the county school district which would have enabled the district to borrow some $250,000 needed to build 16 additional classrooms.

The supervisors stated a resolution, as presented by the school board requesting the millage, was improperly drawn.

Louie Ladner, school board member, said the school board adopted a resolution requesting the millage six months ago.

"We have been trying for six months to get this tax passed and we still cannot get it," Ladner said. "We had hoped to have the money so we could have the new classrooms for the kids next fall. They are the ones who are going to hurt from this," he added.

The school board plans to build 10 classrooms at Hancock North Central High School, four at Gulfview Elementary School and two at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School, but needs some $250,000 in local funding to begin the project.

The supervisors explained the resolution adopted by the school board in September of last year requested passage of millage to repay a $250,000 loan needed at this time for construction of a handicapped center at Hancock North Central.

The handicapped center was built before that millage was ever approved and the school board was forced to use $250,000 from 16th Section land funds to pay the construction bill for the handicapped center, Ladner said.

Dolph Kellar, supervisor president, said the millage money requested at that time was in excess of the amount legally acceptable and stated the supervisors informed School Superintendent Billy Sills of the problem.

Ladner, after the meeting, said he had approved several motions at school board meetings requesting Joseph Gex, school board attorney, and Sills to produce the correct figures for the millage tax resolution so that resolution could be passed.

At Monday's meeting Ladner along with board member Woodrow Ladner and school board attorney Joseph Gex, presented the correct figures and requested the supervisors approve the millage.

However, the school board members stated the millage tax would now be applied to construction of 16 classrooms.

The supervisors informed the group that a state law requires resolutions requesting passage of a millage tax to indicate exactly what that money will be used for, as well as showing the correct amount of money legally obtainable.

They said the resolution submitted by the school board last September concerned obtaining money to construct a handicapped center at Hancock North Central.

They said that resolution is no longer valid because the school board now wants to apply the millage toward a loan needed for construction of additional classrooms.

Supervisors informed the school board members that a new resolution stipulating exact use of the money along with information indicating the correct amount of money will have to be presented to the supervisors.

Ladner said the school will meet this Friday to adopt a resolution to obtain the millage tax.

He asked if the supervisors board would be willing to approve a millage to replace that loan if the school board went through the trouble of writing a new resolution.

Walter Gex, attorney for the supervisors, said the supervisors are legally bound to approve a millage tax if the school board's resolution is in order.

The supervisors informed the school board members they would not be able to act on a new resolution until the first Monday in June, and stated they would then have to advertise a certain amount of days before being able to approve any millage by the first Monday in July.

Louie Ladner, after the meeting, said the confusion over the resolution will delay the school board in obtaining the loan and defeat the possibility of constructing new classrooms before the beginning of the next school year.

EPA grant authorized for Regional Authority

The Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater Authority has received an Environmental Protection Agency grant offer of $473,590 to update the wastewater facilities planning for publicly owned treatment systems in Jackson, Harrison, and Hancock Counties.

Planning for the facilities began in 1974 under the jurisdiction of the Gulf Coast Counties.

Planning was subsequently taken over by the State of Mississippi in 1977 and later in 1979 by the Regional Interim Commission.

The Authority, which succeeded the Interim Commission in August, 1980 has been negotiating Wastewater Service Contracts with the Gulf Coast Communities.

To date - Jackson County, Pascagoula, Moss Point, Ocean Springs, and Pass Christian have signed contracts.

A contract with Biloxi will be determined by a referendum to be held May 19, 1981, and negotiations are continuing with Long Beach and Gulfport.

Waveland and Bay Saint Louis are examining an alternate regional approach involving only Hancock County.

The D'Iberville Utility District in Harrison County is pursuing means by which they can join the Authority without Harrison County which has expressed opposition to the regional plan.

The wastewater facilities plan update will incorporate new population data and fulfill several new Environmental Protection Agency planning requirements invoked since 1974.

In addition, site specific environmental analysis for the adopted plan will be done, and preliminary engineering for the Ocean Springs land treatment system will be completed.

Stanford E. Morse Jr., chairman of the Authority, said he was pleased by the quick response of the Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control and the Environmental Protection Agency to the Authority's application for funds.

"The six month project will finally bring to a close the long and difficult planning process for the Gulf Coast Wastewater Program. Immediately upon completing this project, the Authority will apply for design and construction grants before the well runs dry," he said.

The federal grant funds provide 75 percent of the total project cost of $631,453.

The project will be completed by CH2M HILL, consulting engineers to the Authority.

Records in the Hancock sheriff's department show Farve pleaded guilty to those charges and was placed on probation under the first offender non-judication program.

The program administrator reported, "The city had never before advertised in 'The Daily Herald,' but we made a special effort to make the availability of the contract known."

"I think 'The Daily Herald' would like to claim it's the most widely read newspaper on the Coast, but supposedly nobody read the legal notice," Murray said.

"March 17 I presented my proposal to the City Council, April 7 the council accepted my proposal and 10 days before the city election those articles were published. I don't like people writing articles like this," Murray stated.

The company president said his initial project charge is $4,500 with HUD budget allowing $7,500 which he noted was "40 percent under budget."

"The articles also said I worked on GRPC's time. My wife (another corporate member) and I worked at night on this project," Murray reported.

Murray stated the HUD budget recommends administrative charges of $940 for acquisition, $765 for rehabilitation, $115,000 for general administration, $1,000 for gas line work and $100 for recreation projects which total $199,140.

The company president said his contract allows $900 for acquisition, $765 for rehabilitation, $100,000 for general administration, $1,000 for gas line work and $100 for recreation totalling $183,900 ($15,240 or eight percent under budget).

"I don't understand why this wasn't in the paper. Nobody asked me or the mayor about the fees, but the paper did quote Peter Benvenuti, outgoing council president and Ward One representative, and Herta Smith, Ward Three city council candidate," he said.

Murray explained his resignation from GRPC as a "normal transition" and an effort to allow the city to "recover $6,000 spent on 1979 programs."

"I think the articles were unwarranted and they went so far as to put my salary in the story. How would you feel if your salary was in the paper? I feel it is an invasion of privacy," Murray stated.

"I'm going to apologize to the city council and the people of the city. I'm sorry this happened and I hate to be part of this," he said.

Several members of the audience jamming the city council room at City Hall shouted "file suit!"

Murray said he feels the articles might adversely affect the city's applications for federal funds in the future.

"This program is about the old and handicapped, houses which don't have insulation, female heads of households, small children..." he added.

Murray then noted audience member Calvin Smith chuckling.

Smith stated, "I think it's funny you bringing this up this time of year, I think it's (expletive deleted)."

"Don't bring up this about the cold and poor. We're not here to justify your program," he said.

Several members of the audience said, "Let him (Murray) go on!"

Smith stated if he laughs and Murray comments about his reaction, he should be allowed to respond.

Richard Fayard, Citizen's Advisory Committee chairman, asked Police Chief Douglas Williams to remove Smith from the room because of his profane remarks.

Williams, who is also a member of the committee (who was standing at the room doorway) asked Smith not to use abusive language.

Murray then emphasized a need for good publicity, praised his ability as an administrator and pledged to continue in that position.

Mayor Larry Bennett reported a

HUD official in Jackson said the program "is in compliance with HUD guidelines."

Bennett praised Murray's work and reported the contract with Murray will "save money" for the city.

Herta Smith stated, "Murray is going

Murray said that on the night advertised bid proposals were opened 'nobody showed up.'

"It's unfortunate this article was published, but if Ms. Back would have come and talked to me I could have explained the administrative costs," he

The historical society president noted

HEARING—Page 5A

FULL HOUSE—Jamming the Bay St. Louis City Hall City Council meeting room Monday night for a Small Cities Program hearing were reporters, public officials, group representatives, political candidates and citizens. The hearing

Earl Lizana told Murray, "You complain because the newspaper published your salary, but GRPC is a public agency and it should be held accountable."

Lizana then questioned if either the newspaper report or Murray was "misleading the public" regarding administrative figures.

Murray replied, "My figures are well documented."

Geraldine Lang, advisory committee member, suggested, "The news media should have gone to HUD and found out what was going on. You can ask HUD yourself."

Edith Back, The Daily Herald Bay Bureau reporter who wrote the article in question, stated, "In the early hearings regarding this program this budget (she held in her hand) was passed out."

"I added up the administrative figures and got a total of $107,000," she said.

Back noted that the administrative and contingency category in the program now totals $215,000.

"The early figures have been revised, but it still doesn't add up to $183,000," she said.

Murray noted that administrative figures are contained in other budget items and not individually listed in the budget activity categories.

Back stated, "I erred in using early difficult to find out any of these things—I'm only human."

The reporter said a copy of Murray's proposal was given to Benvenuti, but details of the contract were never discussed in public meetings.

"It's almost impossible to get information if things are discussed in workshop meetings," she stated.

Workshop meetings are regularly conducted secret city council meetings in which the press and the public are not allowed to attend.

Back said, "I feel my article is more critical of the city council than you (Murray)."

stated.

"All she told me when she talked with me before was she was gathering advance information for this hearing, but never said anything about the budget," Murray said.

"This is what bothered me. I could have explained it," he added.

Back noted, "The project guidelines say all information in renovation contracts are not available without written consent of the city council."

Murray replied, "Being an administrator I'm only an advisor to the city council. There is a fine line between the privacy act and public information act."

"None of the information is not accessible to the press, but we need a written statement or some justification to make this information available," he added.

Lizana stated, "I think anything done with tax dollars should be public information."

Herta Smith said, "Are we still going to have workshop meetings in relation to these grants?"

"I think a lot of this has happened because people have gotten only pieces of information. Are we going to do this publicly? We might not be in the position we are at this time," she stated.

Charles Gottschalk said, "That's a city council decision."

Peggy Gibbins, Hancock County Historical Society president, recommended the city establish a historical commission to preserve architecturally significant homes in the program area.

Murray reported the HUD grant funds will be utilized to demolish or repair homes of low income families.

"Zoning ordinances and building codes will determine which buildings will be demolished," he said.

Hats off to Bay St. Louis Little League

Saturday will be the official opening of the Bay St. Louis Little League season. The games are played at the McDonald Field, corner of Dunbar and Ulman Avenues, Bay St. Louis.

The wonderful thing about this year's Little League program is the fact that four new teams have been added to the league. Instead of 90 young people ages 9-12 playing another 60 will bring the total 150 for the 10 team league.

Giving another 60 children an opportunity to play is very good and we have to commend the Little League officials on their formation of the four new teams.

There are many folks who give their time and talents for many weeks during the Little League season, such as coaches, assistant coaches, and managers and of course parents.

Many years the six sponsors of the teams have been American Legion, Edmond Fahey, Gulf National Bank, Hancock Bank, Merchants Bank and Riemann's. The new sponsors are Coastal Insurance, The Little Mushroom, Kergosien Realty and Treutel Insurance.

We feel the six sponsors for so many years should be commended as well as the four new sponsors.

The McDonald family, who for many years have donated the playing area, for Little League as well as other ball leagues, should be recognized.

This year a queen was selected for the league with Heidi Hitt receiving the honors and Marty Morreale selected as maid of honor. We congratulate these two as well as the other eight maids.

We know there have been many wonderful supporters of the Little League this year which has enabled the addition of four teams and we express a sincere thank you to them.

We hope this will be a good season for Little League and urge everyone to try and attend some of the games throughout the season. Remember, the admission is just being at the park.

Bits 'n pieces

We noticed just how nice the many bushes of Oleanders are this year on the neutral grounds of US-90.

It is amazing how well the flowers do under such harsh environment. We are told that the Oleander plants are harmful to health so we urge all parents to keep their children away from them. Of course the kids should not be meddling around the neutral ground of the highway.

We feel the flowers definitely add to the highway scene and makes taking a trip pleasant.

Everyone seems to be gearing up for the Miss USA contest coming up next week.

It has not been hard to assign staff members to cover the events. Sure wish it would be that easy for all coverages.

We editorialized on the opening of the Bay St. Louis Little League this Saturday. We do not want to forget the Harrison-Hancock County Little League which opens in The Kiln also on Saturday.

The first games will be at the District Four Park on Highway 43 starting at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The league has 19 teams, with the majority coming from Hancock County. We hope there will be a bit turnout for the opening celebration which will include the dedication of the park.

There are a lot of folks pushing hard for our youth in Hancock County and it makes us feel very good.

Those who attended (and even the participants) are still laughing about the "Buck or Two Beauty Revue" Monday night.

It was something else, we did not think there were so many talented or is that untalented people in Hancock County.

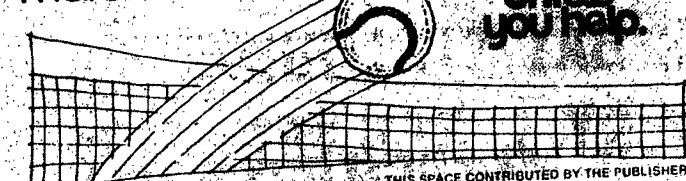

A big thanks goes to the employees of Hancock General who worked so hard to make the revue a big success.

There were a lot of donations of money and items for the event and we thank everyone for their assistance.

The money made will be put to very good use in the re-decoration of Hancock General.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Governor William Winter recommended to a congressional panel last week that state governments be given a strong and flexible role in managing community and economic development block grants.

In testimony before the Housing and Urban Affairs Subcommittee of the U.S. Senate Banking Committee, Winter said, "The time is long overdue for national policy to become a policy of true federalism and to provide a direct, explicit role for states to assist localities in stimulating community and economic development."

Winter also called for special programs to make housing available to persons with moderate and low incomes. Winter testified on behalf of the National Governors' Association and the state of Mississippi.

Saying that Mississippi's commitment to community and economic improvement extends throughout state government, Winter catalogued a variety of professionally run Mississippi departments, agencies and programs which he said "have demonstrated their competence and ability to meet concrete local needs." Winter specifically mentioned the Mississippi Board of Economic Development, the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Research and Development Center, and the lower interest home mortgage program as having had a substantial positive impact on community and economic development in Mississippi.

"As governor," Winter said, "it has been my experience that federal programs to aid distressed people work best when they work in concert with state programs and policies."

Winter told the Subcommittee that budget reductions, now being contemplated at the federal level "must be accompanied by increased flexibility at the state and local level to direct limited resources to areas of greatest need." The governors are convinced that a block grant approach to financing subnational development activities makes sense and will provide state and local officials with the flexibility needed to absorb cuts in existing categorical development programs. Quite frankly, the states have been forgotten partners in federal efforts to stimulate community and economic development and it is time that they play a more integral role.

"It is the NGA's firm belief," Winter continued, "that the federal government should encourage closer working relations between state and local governments and not place any institutional roadblocks in the way."

Senator Cochran reports

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) is sponsoring legislation to expand the Tennessee Valley Authority's board of directors from three to five members and require that a majority be residents of TVA states.

He said the proposed change would make TVA "more responsive to people it serves" and the residency requirement will help "safeguard those most affected by TVA's actions."

In addition to expanding the TVA board of directors from three to five members, the bill would require three directors "at all times" to be residents of states using TVA power. These states include Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, and Virginia.

Senator Cochran noted the regional development agency created in 1933 enjoys broad powers granted by the original TVA act, and recent policy decisions have brought substantial rate increases, increased indebtedness, and a massive construction program. He further noted that many of the TVA board's actions are non-appealable under law.

"TVA has grown to become the nation's largest producer of electricity, serving about seven million people," the Senator commented. "The actions by its board of directors will have a profound effect on residents of TVA's service area."

Considering the nation's energy situation, Senator Cochran said "the next several decades may turn out to be the most crucial and challenging in TVA's history."

The Farm Credit Administration has voted to move the Fifth District Farm Credit Banks from New Orleans to Jackson, U.S. Senator Thad Cochran announced.

Senator Cochran said the FCA board of directors voted unanimously to endorse the move recommended earlier by the Fifth District Farm Credit Board of Directors.

The three farm credit banks presently headquartered in New Orleans serve agricultural borrowers in Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama. The move to Jackson would involve about 180 employees and an annual payroll of nearly $5 million.

Last year in Mississippi, the farm credit banks had nearly $85 million outstanding in loans, and thus far in 1981 have made over 11,000 loans.

Farm credit bank officials sought the move to Jackson because it is more centrally located for farmers in the three-state area, and for other economic and personnel reasons. Three sites are under consideration in the Jackson area for possible location of the farm credit banks' offices.

Senator Cochran, a member of the Agriculture Committee and also chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on agriculture and rural development, hailed the action by the national board in approving the move from New Orleans to Jackson.

Senator Thad Cochran is sponsoring legislation to help promote U.S. trade in foreign markets, and to encourage soil conservation on farms and rangelands.

He is co-sponsoring a bill to establish an international antitrust task force to help U.S. firms compete more effectively in international trade.

Senator Cochran pointed out the Senate last year passed similar legislation, which he also co-sponsored, but "unfortunately it died in the final days of the 96th Congress during the press of last-minute business in the House of Representatives."

The bill would establish a task force to examine how to free U.S. companies from unnecessary antitrust restraints which have hurt exports and caused the American position to deteriorate in the international marketplace.

Also, Senator Cochran is sponsoring a bill to provide tax incentives for U.S. farmers and ranchers willing to invest in soil conservation practices on their own land.

"The Department of Agriculture studies show a loss of four billion tons of soil each year from private lands in our country," the Senator commented, "including a staggering two billion tons of good cropland topsoil." He said further, "Most of our farmers and ranchers have a special feeling about the land, but it takes an extra effort for a farmer to conserve his land for future generations."

"Soil conservation pays off over the long haul, but in today's market, with many farmers worried about just getting by, paying for soil conservation is a real economic burden."

The bill would provide a 10 percent investment tax credit the first year, or a depreciation schedule over a period of several years.

Salary system requested by county Justice judges

By BRENT MACEY

District Five Justice Court Judge John Chevis approached the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday with a petition signed by four of the five Justice Court judges in Hancock County requesting the present fee system be abolished by the supervisors and replaced with a salary system.

Currently the judges are paid a fee for each case which appears before them.

The board explained no money is available to initiate the salary system under the present budget system established last September.

For that reason the board approved tabling the petition until next budget is approved at the end of this fiscal year.

The establishment of a salary system would call for paying each Justice Court judge $17,500 while also providing the judges with office space.

In addition, the supervisors must provide a clerk for the Justice Court judges whose duties are to file and record actions and pleadings, to receive money and to insure all process necessary for the operation of the Justice Court.

The action by the judges follows a recent law passed by the Mississippi Legislature abolishing the fee system for Justice Court judges effective January 1, 1984.

The law provides an option of establishing a salary system earlier if a majority of the judges show a desire to do so.

The petition states the judges wish to form a better Justice Court system in Hancock County and to establish a fair and equitable system, more accessible to the people.

The petition continues, the judges realize 'the flaws in the fee system' and that the federal courts have expressed their disapproval of the system.

The petition also states the salary system will benefit the people, make the system more efficient, and also 'be a considerable savings to the county, especially if you notice the gross amount paid judges compared to the salaries to be paid.'

The concluding paragraph of the petition reads, 'We hope that by submitting this petition, we will be the first county in the state of Mississippi to adopt this change and thereby lead the way for other counties to do likewise.'

District One Judge Lee B. Klein, District Three Judge Lloyd W. Anderson, District Four Judge Bruce J. Necaise and District Five Judge John C. Chevis Jr. all signed the petition.

Chevis explained that District Two Judge Horatio Frierson would have signed the petition but was unavailable due to a recent trip.

The supervisors appeared surprised by the action of the judges, who were represented by Klein, Anderson and Chevis at the meeting.

Michael Necaise, Chancery Court clerk, said, 'I don't understand it. I thought this had been explained.'

Necaise's comment was in reference to a recent meeting in which Sen. Martin Smith and Rep. J.P. Compretta met with the supervisors to explain the mechanics involved in passing the bill.

The bill, as explained by Smith at that meeting, was worked out in a conference committee with the house representatives pushing for a more immediate salary system and the senate trying to stall.

A compromise was worked out between the two bodies, by establishing an April 1, 1982 deadline requiring counties to hire a clerk to handle the judge's paper work and assign cases on a rotating basis.

Smith said the action would put an end to 'forum shopping' in which attorneys seek a favorable judge for their client.

That date would also call for the continued use of the fee system, thus, stalling the county government from having to finance the salary scale.

He explained the scheduled date for the law to go into effect 'will probably be changed' since the legislature will meet again before that time.

He stated establishing that date also gives the representatives time to gather information from the county governments and justice judges to work out possible flaws in the system.

Frierson at that meeting had said the employment of one clerk for five judges would not be sufficient to handle all the necessary paper work.

Smith said that was the purpose of the meeting, to receive 'input' from the different groups.

In other business, the board was informed of a letter sent by the State Tax Commission, commending Edward Murtagh county assessor-tax collector, for his work on the reappraisal project.

Officially proclaimed the week of May 4 to May 10 as Be Kind to Animal Week.

Approved a resolution agreeing to participate in the project to repair Beach Blvd. Don Murray, of Broadway and Seals engineers, informed the board the application for Coastal Energy Impact Funds has been granted to the county and Waveland for repair of the Beach Road.

He said the county and city will receive a $260,000 grant and has also been allocated $9,250 for a study of the remaining area of Beach Road not included in the application.

Detectives E.R. Cook and William Markopoulos went to 2212 32nd Avenue and was observed getting out of a vehicle with a female companion and as the officers turned around to talk to them, they fled in another vehicle, according to Gulfport Police.

The two then were apprehended and taken back to the address where Bridges was positively identified as being an escapee.

Bridges accomplice, Betty J. Dent, same address, was charged for allegedly being an accessory after the fact of a jail escape by aiding and abetting, according to Gulfport police.

Dent is confined to Harrison County jail in lieu of a $5,000 bond awaiting a preliminary hearing.

Peterson allowed, 'We had 25 prisoners and the jail was built for 12 to 15. Of the total we have 12 who are for the state, as you see three of the four were state prisoners involved in the escape.'

'If we had no state prisoners, this probably would not have happened,' Peterson said, adding, 'One man going into a cell alone is not enough security. He needs to do that with another officer.'

The sheriff indicated he will seek provision for two jailers as his current budget only allows for one.

Can Bay St. Louis afford another lawsuit?

The city is faced with the possibility of yet another lawsuit. The following is a quotation that appeared in The Daily Herald, April 30, 1981, "A Hancock County woman has charged that she was denied consideration for the job of animal warden for the city of Bay St. Louis because of her sex."

Elected officials who manage to get Bay St. Louis into these situations must be held accountable for their actions. We, the citizens of Bay St. Louis should not have to suffer for the irrational decisions of these elected officials.

Gex said there was 'nothing illegal' in purchasing the printer prior to board approval because it was a state bid priced item.

Sills explained, "In October the board asked for prices for a printer and due to a lack of communication the machine was instead purchased."

The board also approved a request by Harlin Hill, federal program coordinator, and Sills to move a pre-school handicapped class, now housed in a building in the Silver Creek Community on Kiln-Delisle Road, to the Clermont Harbor School building.

Sills reported, "We have an extra room at Clermont and we'll be saving some $5,000 in rent plus utilities and reduce transportation costs."

The superintendent said one out of four rooms at the Clermont Harbor facility was not being utilized and most children in the class reside in southern Hancock County.

In other business at the 9 a.m. regular meeting in the Dan M. Russell Sr. Youth Court Building, the board:

—Accepted a single $5,303 bid from Rebel Sound Systems of Gulfport to install a public address and intercommunication system at HNC Elementary School. Sills noted that in a potentially disastrous situation a schoolwide alert can be issued from the HNC principal's office after the system is installed.

—Accepted a single $418 per year bid for a five-year agricultural lease with Jeff Ware for 16.72 acres in Section 24-6-16 near the Leetown Community.

—Accepted a bid from Blossman Gas Co. of Waveland for five bus butane fuel conversion kits at $500 each with the gas company loaning vehicle tanks to the district. Sills said the busses will average the same number of miles per gallon, but butane costs 69 cents per gallon as opposed to $1.25 per gallon for gasoline.

—Approved release of fourth grade student Lester R. Jones and 12th grade student Lars Hygrell for the 1981-1982 school year to attend Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District classes.

—Authorized HNC, Charles B. Murphy Elementary, Kiln Annunciation and Gulfview Elementary Schools as Title One attendance areas.

—Authorized Sills to 'rework' the district's bidding forms.

—Authorized payment of a $857 HNC February docket item previously tabled. The item included janitorial supplies, postage, and bus fuel.

—Authorized paying Debra Ladner as an assistant bookkeeper in the district office during May.

—Denied a $253 payment to Hillman for pickup truck tires recently slashed at HNC, but approved a $34 payment to Amway of Gulfport which was listed on the same docket number for soap.

—Denied a $506 payment to Hillman for travel expenses and lodging costs at a recent National Educator's Association convention in Jackson.

—Denied a request by Rocky Gaudin of Kiln to purchase concrete steps stored at HNC. Sills said the steps were loaned by the Jackson County School District along with several portable classrooms.

—Tabled a Mississippi Forestry Commission request for two payments totalling $2,382 for marking timber for sale in two sections.

—Discussed the school board's liability for air conditioning units and wiring to be installed in 21 HNC Elementary classrooms by the HNC Parent-Teacher's Association. Louie Ladner stated he would take full responsibility for all wiring work.

—Discussed the district's present expulsion policy for students caught on campus possessing drugs.

—Discussed procedures for supplemental payments to coaches. Woodrow Ladner said such pay supplements should be paid from salary accounts.

—Discussed methods of improving accountability for teacher's school supplies.

—Discussed methods for securing millage for 10 additional classrooms at school campus' countywide.

—Heard a suggestion from Woodrow Ladner recommending year-end report cards be sent home with students rather than mailed.

—Received an invitation to attend a Charles B. Murphy athletic banquet in the school cafeteria at 7 p.m. Saturday.

SOUTHERN STUDIES

Alda Camille Henick of Yazoo City has received the first Gray Award for outstanding scholarship in Southern Studies at The University of Mississippi.

The award, to be presented annually, consists of an inscribed certificate and a check for $100 and is based on research papers written in Southern Studies classes. Miss Henick, a junior, was selected as the first recipient of the award for her paper, "Willie Morris: His Sense of Place."

The Gray Award is named in honor of Col. and Mrs. Homer Earl Gray Jr. of Oxford. Col. Gray, a retired military officer now serving as Material Control Supervisor in the Ole Miss chemistry department, has established an endowment fund for permanent support of the award. Mrs. Gray, the former Katherine Dawson of Summit, is a graduate of Ole Miss, and two of the Gray's three children are graduates of the University.

South Central Bell offers tips for Mother's Day

A phone call to "Mom" on Mother's Day has long been an American tradition and according to South Central Bell, the volume of long distance calls placed on Mother's Day is second only to Christmas among the year's special telephoning days.

Franklin Kyle, the company's District Manager suggests several tips for getting calls through faster and easier this Sunday, on May 10.

"On Mother's Day, calling volume is lightest in the early morning and before 5 p.m.," Kyle said. "So call early in the day for faster service. Also, it's more economical to call before 5 p.m. on Sundays."

Kyle said "One-Plus" calls—those dialed direct by the customer without operator assistance—will also save the caller time and money.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company said it expects to handle nearly 40 million Long Distance telephone calls on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 10 about 10 million more than on an average Sunday.

The company said that this year's projection includes an estimated 21.1 million interstate calls, an 8.7 percent increase over Mother's Day 1980. The figure includes an estimated 885,000 calls to and from overseas locations, an increase of about 19 percent over last year.

The company said that the heaviest calling usually occurs following morning church services and after 6 p.m. Calling volumes are usually lighter in the afternoon.

AT&T suggested several ways for callers to save time and money:

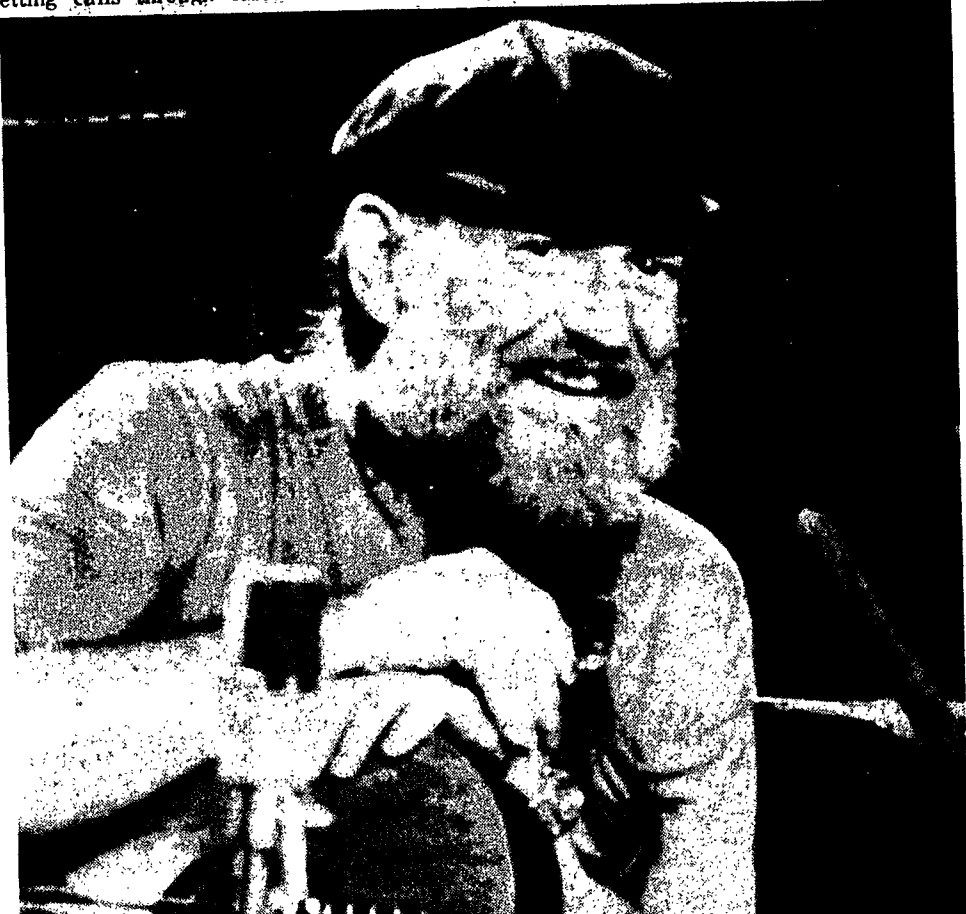

—Dial direct. Operator-assisted calls cost more, so whenever possible, dial the call yourself.

—Take advantage of the lowest interstate dialing rates. All day Saturday, and Sunday until 5 p.m., you can dial for 60 percent less than weekday rates.

—Placing interstate calls between 5 p.m. and 11 p.m. Sunday saves 35 percent off the weekday rates.

—Many callers can reach 82 foreign countries and areas by dialing their own calls, the least expensive way to call overseas.

Callers who do not have international direct-dial capability can get direct-dial rates on station-to-station calls to other countries.

COUNTRY MUSIC SUPERSTAR—Superstar Willie Nelson is one of the featured headliners on a special edition of "Austin City Limits": "Country Classics: The Best of Austin City Limits" at 6:30 p.m., Saturday, May 9, and again at 8 p.m., Monday, May 11, on the Mississippi ETV Network. The program features some of the favorites from past "Austin City Limits" programs.

credit hours toward a doctorate degree) will receive $18,075 for the 1981-82 school year.

The board also approved increasing teacher aid salaries by seven percent after a motion by Maurice Singleton.

A first year teacher's aid will be paid $4,680 for the 1981-82 school year.

That figure is an increase of $198 per year above last year's $4,482 salary for a beginning teacher's aid.

A motion by James Ginn, board member, to table the superintendent's recommendation for administrative salaries was approved by the board.

McCullough said Tuesday the administrative salaries are based on the salary increases of the classroom teachers.

He stated the same process (certification and experience) which establishes the teachers salary is used in determining the administrators' salaries.

However, an administrator's salary is based on a 12 month period and also includes an additional 'responsibility percent,' he said.

The superintendent explained the administrator's salary is based on taking the salary of a classroom teacher of equal experience and certification and dividing that annual salary by nine to determine the monthly wage for that administrator.

That monthly figure is multiplied by the number of months an administrator is employed, usually 12, he said.

Finally, the responsibility percentage is added.

McCullough would not state what responsibility percentages he recommended for the board's approval.

"It would not be fair to the board to divulge that information since the matter was discussed in executive session," he stated.

McCullough did say he recommended non-certified personnel—including cafeteria workers, secretaries, and maintenance people—be raised seven percent.

That recommendation was tabled by the board.

"When I figure out the salary scales to give recommendations to the board, I consider everybody in the school system to be just as important as the other person, no matter what he does," McCullough said.

He said that reasoning was the basis of giving everyone a seven percent raise.

MY FELLOW CITIZENS

Our City is deep into a continuing pattern of growth. The incoming administration will be confronted with awesome responsibilities. To meet this challenge, a spirit of harmony and cooperation must prevail between the two branches of city government. Constructive criticism will be helpful.

Unjust criticism, petty bickering or constant "nit-picking" will not be conducive to the best interest of our citizens. My pledge to you, my fellow citizens, is that I will constantly guard against the evolution of a HOSTILE adversary relationship between the Mayor and Council.

$8,200 a day, every day.

It takes about $8,200 a day to run Bay St. Louis. Is this money wasted or spent wisely? That depends on how well the mayor runs this city. The mayor makes the routine decisions that determine how streets, drainage and utilities are maintained, how the police and fire departments operate and how the other city departments are run. In short, the mayor is the boss of the city's daily business.

To spend our local money wisely, we need good management in the mayor's office. We need a new mayor.

Hunting season hearing set in Hattiesburg tonight

The Department of Wildlife Conservation is taking recommendations from state hunters on upcoming fall and winter hunting seasons.

This year the agency is holding three public hearings before making final decisions on certain season dates and bag limits administered by its five-member Commission.

Hearings were held in Tupelo May 5 at the Community Center at the Fairgrounds; Jackson, May 6, second floor assembly room at the Woolfolk State Office Building; and today in Hattiesburg, at the National Guard Armory.

At the Jackson hearing the Commission accepted recommendations from fishermen about hand grabbing on Ross Barnett Reservoir. Tonight's hearing is at 7:30 p.m.

Comments and suggestions made by hunters and fishermen, along with recommendations from the biological staff, will be presented to Commission on Wildlife Conservation when it meets in Biloxi in late May to set final season dates and bag limits.

"Each year hundreds of hunters attend the hearings and ask the agency to set certain season dates and bag limits for their areas of the state," executive director Richard Yancey said.

"While the Commission has the authority to set some seasons, many of the migratory bird hunting regulations are established by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the vast majority of the seasons on resident game are set by the Legislature.

Yancey indicated that squirrel season opening dates have been set by statute in three separate zones, while closing dates will be established by Commission action. At the hearings, charts will be on display as to the actual authority having jurisdiction over each regulation covering the various species of wildlife.

He said that the deer seasons are largely determined by the Legislature. However, the Commission will determine the closing date for the second archery season, in addition to setting season dates and open areas for antlerless hunting.

Yancey said that the opening and closing dates for the trapping and hunting seasons on raccoon, fox and opossum will be set by the Commission within a broad framework of dates set by the Legislature.

Beginning and ending dates and bag limits for ducks, geese, doves, snipe, woodcock and other migratory birds will be set later in the summer by the Commission within framework dates handed down by the Department of the Interior's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

This year the duck season opening date, set by legislative action during the 1981 session, will begin the first Saturday in December and extend for at least 15 days during that month.

Permits required in Mexican waters

Applications for permits to authorize U.S. vessels to fish snapper and grouper in the Mexican Zone (12 to 200 miles off the Mexican coast) for August 1 through December 29, 1981, are now available.

Applications for entering vessels in this fishery may be obtained by contacting the Fisheries Management Division (F-SER72), National Marine Fisheries Service, 9450 Koger Boulevard, St. Petersburg, Florida 33702; telephone number (813) 883-3722.

Applications are available also from the Southeastern Fisheries Association, 124 West Jefferson Street, Tallahassee, Florida 32301, telephone number (904) 244-0612.

Completed application forms must be received by the National Marine Fisheries Service or the Southeastern Fisheries Association no later than May 29, 1981, for transmittal to the Mexican Government.

Red Cross Aquatic School scheduled at USM

The American Red Cross National Aquatic School will be conducted May 15-22 at the University of Southern Mississippi to meet the growing need for qualified instructors in business, industry, government, college, schools, and communities.

Participants wishing to attend the school will receive, from experts in their field, and eight-day intensive training program in first aid, water safety, and small craft handling. Early registration is urged.

Successful participants will return to their companies, schools or communities as certified instructors to set up effective training and on-the-job accident prevention programs, utilizing certified Red Cross courses as a foundation for their safety effort.

Professional educators have described the school's format as being "one of the most exceptional systems of educational enrichment available in America today."

The workshop is sponsored by the Mississippi and Louisiana Division's of the American Red Cross, the USM School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and its Department of Athletic Administration and Coaching.

For more information contact: USM Conferences and Workshops, Southern Station Box 5056, Hattiesburg, Ms. 39401, phone (601) 266-4285; or Coach Mike Giles, M.C. Johnson Natatorium, Southern Station Box 5106, Hattiesburg, 266-7154.

Students must be at least 17 years old to register.

AUSTRALIAN FOOTBALL
Australian Rules Football returns to ESPN for a second year, after a strong positive response from viewers towards last year's telecasts. The game, played on a large oval pitch between two 18-player teams, is an action-packed mixture of American football, soccer and rugby rolled into one. Players are allowed to run, kick or punch the ball forward, but they may not throw it.
ESPN will present 28 weekly shows from the Victorian Football League in Australia, concluding with the league championship. ESPN viewers may watch May 8, 15, 22 (Fridays) at 9 p.m., and Tuesday, May 12, at 4:30 p.m. on Hancock Cable Ch. 3.

USM slates trainers workshop

Junior and senior high school boys and girls interested in working as athletic trainers will benefit from a July 12-13 workshop at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg.

Experience as a student trainer is helpful, but not necessary. Jim Gallaspy, director of the workshop, says it will be an intensive three-day event with much emphasis on practical experience. Time will be devoted to actual practical experiences ranging from taping to emergency situations. Film, audiovisual aids, lecture, demonstrations and question and answer sessions will be used in a classroom setting.

Gallaspy is an assistant professor at Athletic Administration and Coaching at USM and serves as assistant trainer for the Golden Eagles.

Training staff will be made up of certified athletic trainers who have worked in a high school situation and can understand the problems faced by the high school student trainer.

Workshop sponsors, in addition to the Department of Athletic Administration and Coaching, include the USM

School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and Bike Athletic Products, Inc.

Why are utility bills so high?

Utility bills shouldn't go up so fast. Fixing gas leaks can reduce the $75,000 to $100,000 worth of gas lost each year. Bay St. Louis has federal money for new gas lines in one part of town, but what about the rest of the city? We need to do some repair work on our own.

Materials and repair contractors cost the utility system $243,000 last year. Much of this can be saved by repairing sewer and water breaks as soon as they happen, and by avoiding "blank check" repair contracts that are wide open for abuse.

To save money we need better maintenance practices. We need a new mayor.

Rumors of financial aid shortage causing problems

Financial aid officials at the University of Southern Mississippi say the multitude of rumors surrounding financial aid for fall semester could cause unnecessary problems for college bound students.

"What could happen with all the rumors of funding cut-backs and scarcity of financial aid is that new students would not complete their admission application process and give-up on finding financial aid, and this should not happen," said Bill Fron, director of financial aid at USM.

"Quite the contrary," he said, "students should continue their admission process and continue to knock on doors for financial aid."

According to Fron, those who made application for assistance prior to the March 15 deadline and have been determined eligible will receive some assistance. In order to assist as many students as possible some awards may be less than full eligibility.

"We are going to spread the funds that we receive as far as they go and hopefully include as many people as possible," Fron said.

The USM Financial Aid office will continue to process applications for financial assistance although the deadline has passed.

Students should contact their local bank for a federally insured student loan, or any other lending agency making funds available to students.

Billie Allen, director of high school and junior college relations sees financial assistance as a big factor in the summer Mini-Quarter program.

Mini-Quarter is USM's orientation program held in one and two day sessions throughout the summer.

"Some students are telling us they are not coming to Mini-Quarter due to the need to work in order to come to USM in the fall. We are recommending they try to take one or two days off for Mini-Quarter because it will be a decided advantage when they report in the fall," Ms. Allen said.

Fron and Allen echoed appeals to students to continue their admission procedures and financial aid applications and "not give up the ship," although there is not much money available as in prior years.

Students may talk to the USM Financial Aid office and admissions by calling toll-free in Mississippi 1-800-222-1804.

Students will be notified of financial assistance awards for all sometime in late June. This is due to delays in the federal government making funds available to institutions.

Student Printz names Emmerich 'Medalist'

The 1981 Mississippi Medalist, selected by editors of the state's newspapers, is John Emmerich, publisher of the Greenwood Commonwealth and the McComb Enterprise Journal and three state weeklies.

The award is presented each year at the Students Printz, campus newspaper, Awards Banquet at the University of Southern Mississippi, for outstanding journalistic service.

Emmerich's newspaper career has been a distinguished one from reporter and later managing editor of the Enterprise Journal to reporting and editorial positions with the Minneapolis Tribune, the Baltimore Evening Sun and the Houston Chronicle.

A Nieman Fellow at Harvard University, he has been a Pulitzer Prize Juror, director of both the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association. Emmerich, editor and publisher of the Commonwealth since 1973, has also been president of the Texas UPI Association and is currently president of the Louisiana-Mississippi AP Association. He is the president-elect of the Mississippi Press Association. Mississippi Valley State, where he taught journalism, cited him for outstanding community service and leadership.

The award is offered by Dr. Marvin R. White, president of the college, to the students with the highest academic averages. These ladies will receive special recognition at the Pearl River College Commencement Sunday, at 6 p.m. in the Pearl River Coliseum.

UNCLE DAVE—Tennessee banjo player Uncle Dave Macon has been described as America's most important folk singer. "Uncle Dave Macon," an off-beat special airing at 10 p.m., Thursday, May 7, on the Mississippi ETV Network as part of ETV's "Down Home Good Time," posthumously tells the story of Macon's life through a unique combination of interviews, archival footage, interpretive sequences and musical performances.

street repairs

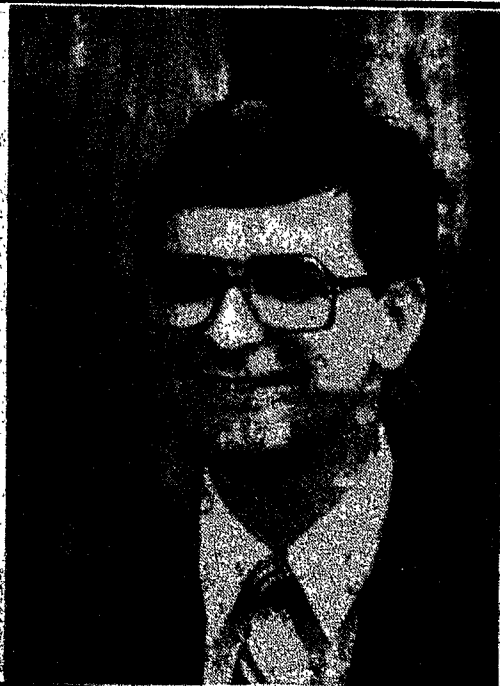

Bay St. Louis can have good streets if we start a regular drainage maintenance program and follow through with standard, proven street repair practices. Just throwing shells or asphalt in a pothole isn't good enough. It wastes time and money, and it doesn't work.

Last year we spent almost twice what we spent in 1977 to maintain streets and drainage. We should get more for our money. With a new mayor we can.

NEW HOURS—9-6 MONDAY-SATURDAY

keeping you in touch

By F. M. Kyle, Jr.
Gulf Coast District Manager

Mother's Day means cards and flowers and, of course, thousands of long distance calls. Last year it meant so many calls that if your Mom lives outside of Mississippi you may have had trouble getting your call through.

Traditionally, Mother's Day is the second busiest day of the year for long distance calls. Mother's special day this year is Sunday, May 10, and we expect more people than ever to "Reach out" and call Mom. Why not call her early — on Saturday — this year and avoid the calling rush? By calling early when the telephone lines aren't busy, your calls can get through quickly.

You can call Mom (or anyone else) the One-Plus way from 11 p.m. Friday until 5 p.m. Sunday and get a 60 percent discount from the regular weekday rate.

Call Mom early — the One-Plus way — this year. You'll get through quicker and pay the lowest possible rate.

It's in the book. Names. Numbers. Addresses. Area Codes. Dialing instructions. Even ways to save money.

All sorts of valuable information is in the telephone book. And it's all yours.

Look in the book. The more you use it, the more valuable it is.

Did you know the ring can be adjusted on most telephones if it is too loud or too soft?

For desk phones, turn the little wheel or lever on the bottom of your phone (follow the arrow) to make the bell louder or softer. Wall phones have a slide or bottom lever for the adjustment.

Make sure the bell on at least one phone in your home is turned up so you won't miss important calls.

One-Plus rates do not apply to 240-Plus direct calls, operator handled calls, coin telephone calls, calls from a hotel or motel, or calls to Alaska or Hawaii.

On One-Plus calls, discounts apply to local charges. On operator-assisted calls, discounts apply only to additional minute calls.

HANDICAPPED
In the next two months State Department of Education workshops will provide school principals with ideas and information on one of education's major challenges: teaching each handicapped child in a situation that allows the child to get the special help that he or she needs while being with non-handicapped children as much as possible.

The Department will also provide designated teachers with opportunities to learn practical methods for teaching autistic-like children. State Superintendent of Education Dr. Charles Holladay announced. "Four two-day workshops from 8:30 to 10 p.m. and on, at least, restrictive environments, have been scheduled for principals," said Dr. Holladay. "The workshops will be held in Greenville, Starkville, Jackson and Gulfport, with participation in each limited to 40 persons. Specific information about how to apply for these workshops is available from local superintendents."

The Institute on education of autistic-like children will be conducted in June by Nancy Dalrymple, coordinator of Autistic Programs, Indiana University Developmental Training Center.

Participation will be limited to applicants (one per district) recommended by their school district.

Moore said that persons who participate in the workshop for teachers will be expected to work with autistic-like children next school year in their home districts. They will also help neighboring districts in planning services for handicapped children who exhibit autistic-like behavior.

"A principal must constantly study the characteristics and learning needs of children, the educational resources that are or should be available, and the applicable laws (including interpretations of laws through the courts)," said Moore.

"The workshops on Least Restrictive Environment and on education of handicapped children with autistic-like behaviors are components of an ongoing statewide program of development of persons who work in the various fields of education of handicapped children or who have related responsibilities," said Dr. Louise Anderson, SDE consultant for Personnel Development.

"Training programs are planned in response to local needs assessments in light of legally mandated priorities and Mississippi's specific needs," she continued.

"Because of the low incidence of autism, it has been difficult to recruit teachers and to establish classes for children with its characteristics," Anderson pointed out that neither federal law nor state law has a separate category for children with autistic-like behaviors. These children, under P.L. 94-142, are served under the category, "other health impaired." Mississippi law has sufficient breadth to include services for these children.

"The June Institute on education of children with autistic-like behaviors will be one step toward expansion and improvement of services for such children," said Anderson. "We hope to continue personnel development in this and other areas of need that are identified yearly through compilation of local needs assessments."

State tax praises F reappr

Progress toward reappraisal Hancock County's 50,000 parcels has been highly commended State Tax Commission.

Terry H. Ballard, senior appraiser the Equalization Division of the Tax Commission, has been in Hancock County reviewing work being accomplished.

Each step of the reappraisal process must meet stringent specifications and guidelines measuring, aerial photogrammetry, mapping, evaluation and appraisal. In a letter to Assessor Edw. Murtagh Jr., Ballard said he was pleased with the quality of the that has been completed, and his judgment "it meets or exceeds State Tax Commission specific and guidelines."

Although most Mississippi counties are hiring outside contractors to accomplish reappraisal — some are running into several million — Murtagh volunteered to perform the task "house" using county employees. This will effect a saving of a $500,000 for the county.
